

REINA LINDA

TRIPLOID variety of striped rind. It is noted for its excellent germination which provides a solution to one of the great problems for this type of variety. It develops into a vigorous plant of dark color which produces round fruits of medium size. Red and firm flesh of excellent color, very few white seeds and high sugar content which permits an early harvest and high production. The flesh firmness offers a great resistance to over-ripening making it suitable for long transport distances.
